

About The Blog

The Insight into the Pros & Cons

How about, if I say that I have this secret recipe that can turn your whole world around? An infinite space, where you'll find numerous possibilities to explore the opportunities you can opt from, fitting both your interest and can prove beneficial if actually worked upon? Let's face it, I would probably be lying to you and trying to trap you into believing in dogma, which is living under someone else's experience; a life that could have been better off if you would have relied on your own intuition and gut feeling.

So the core principle upon which I'm constituting my blog, is whatever I'm going to write would be a reflection of sheer honesty and nothing else. Having actually done something and then being able to identify the depth of difficult involved in overcoming a task is one thing, but giving out your opinion over something you might not have the slightest idea or experience of, is plain simple stupidity.

I would try, not to become that idiot of a person to mislead you guys towards an uncertain achievement, for which you'd probably curse me later. After having bragged enough about how I'll be running things around, it's only fitting that I finally disclose as to what my blog would be about.

Before even considering to start off with a blog, I was asked to come up with helpful content through which people could actually benefit from. For me, it is something I like to call pre-perspective, which is essentially the rise of a mental conflict that gives birth to the foundation of a recreation though a series of on-going events.

What I am going to do, is exactly what should be done, which is the breakthrough from the anxiety dilemma, which pessimistically denies the possibilities of a better future. Be it at work or on personal grounds, the fear of not being able to archive a positive outcome after having taken an initiative, is the most terrible thing that anyone could do to himself.

On my blog, we are going to try and reason as to how can one deviate from his path, provided that he keeps his pace steady, supported with consistent determination. Whatever I am going to talk about, would manifest my ideas being shared to provoke the readers' opinion and the much-needed expression put to speech. With the help of your valuable comments and my current experience in context of the rubric, we are going to work our way out of difficulties, which are of utmost importance in our priority check-list.